

Abstract structure

Abstract
structure

Matthew Haigh

School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, London, UK

Abstract

1377

Purpose – Reflects on the process of summarising research.

Design/methodology/approach – A musical structure is used as a trope for the usual research cycle of distilling reams of data into a short article that is sectioned into meaningful chunks, all of which is summarised in an abstract and represented by a few keywords.

Findings – The reductive process ultimately sublates the empirical world to a series of keywords.

Research limitations/implications – Provides a reflexive break to academic work.

Originality/value – Reflects on the experience of summarising a lengthy research project to a few keywords. Hopefully, the thing is read at the end.

Keywords Objective, Method, Outcomes, Implications, Keywords

Paper type Viewpoint

Life

And death

A research construct somewhere containing a Purpose a devastatingly compelling lacuna to be filled by Others

eulogized the Method

-ology to Method

to Findings Outcomes how it developed anyway and

Not anyhow Implications

Headings Frames Points

to Others ingroups

In 75 words or less

In glittering green

Excluding Notes No notes No citations finally

Keywords del segno

